

Focus on the Future!

Week Four

This week's bulletin is especially for parents/carers who are keen to support their young people with careers, options and decision making.

With many options available to young people, it can be challenging working out the best route for each individual. Some students may know exactly what they want to do. In this scenario, I would highly recommend careers research and if possible work tasters or experience. Does the job role match up to your child's expectations? Is the progression what they hoped for? Will they have the right skills or GCSE grades needed? Mostly importantly, there may be a role available that they are better suited to.

Some students may have no idea what career path they want to take. Therefore, you might be looking for an option which allows them to keep their choices open and give them more time to explore ideas.

With the support of sponsor JP Morgan, Success at School.org have created a guide to help parents and carers steer their children through the confusing world of careers choices. From university and apprenticeships to work experience and gap years, the guide has it all.

To access the eBook for free, parents just need to sign up to the special mailing list for parents. Please click on this link to a special sign-up form explaining the eBook:

<https://mc.successatschool.org/parents-ebook>

Please email me if you need any help accessing these websites and I can explain further.

I am available Wednesday: leaves@ramseyacademy.com

